NORWAY AND VICINITY

A Lecture Course This Season.

A meeting of the guarantors of a popular course of lectures was held Tuesday evening, and it was practically decided to have a course similar to last year, this season. A conditional schedule was arranged.

One of the dates planned for was to come Saturday, and this was rejected and another it is found the Opera House is engaged so that another arrangement must be made for those, which it is thought there will be no difficulty in arranging. Albert J. Stearns, esq., is treasurer and Geo. R. Howe manager. The guarantors:

F. H. Noyes, Geo. R. Howe, C. P. Barnes, H. L. Bartlett, F. E. Drake, F. R. Taylor, S. B. Cummings, H. D. Cole, Frank Kimball, A. D. Park,
B. F. Bradbury, H. J. Bangs, A. J. Stearns, H. L. Horne, H. P. Jones, F. A. Hayden, Rev. C. E. Angell, F. W. Sanborn, Walter L. Gray, Alton C. Wheeler.

To Place the Home Above Want.

A soliciting committee to solicit funds for the Old Ladies' Home at Norway has been chosen. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Lucelia A. Merriam, R. F. D. 2, Norway, Me.; or if more convenient may be left with Mrs. C. B. Cummings at Norway village.

Every useful thing that may be used about the house will be acceptable. Flour, groceries, farm produce, apples, wood, bedding, sheets, pillowcases, or other furnishings.

It is proposed to start a permanent fund for the support of the Home, the interest only to be used yearly. All communications in regard to this fund may be addressed to Mrs. Merriam, who will give full particulars. It is hoped a large enough fund may be raised, in small or larger amounts, that the Home may be nearly or quite self supporting. If the contribution is intended for the permanent fund please so state when sending it in.

This is a place for ladies who have no one to care for them and would otherwise have to live in a house alone, or be by themselves a good deal. The people of Oxford county are taking a great interest in it. It is hoped that our people will see to it that this Home is established and well established, and there is no better time to do it than now.

Those who have gone out from us and are successful in the big world are asked to assist us in this worthy enterprise.

May all lift together and give a new meaning to the oft repeated quotation, "Charity begins at home."

NUMBER 40. OCTOBER 2, 1903, NORWAY AND SOUTH PARIS, MAINE. VOLUME XXXIV.

Exciting Fire.

Wednesday morning, about 2.15, just when people were most thoroughly asleep, fire was discovered in a building owned by C. N. Tubbs on the easterly side of Hazen street. The fire broke out in a shed-like building, which was used as a summer kitchen, and when discovered this part was all ablaze. An alarm was sounded from box 52, the hose teams responded quickly and the all-out was rung just before three o'clock.

The house had been occupied by the family of Frank DeCota, who had moved out Tuesday evening, the last load of going about nine o'clock. It is probable that live coals in the ashes set the building afire. The house is a story and a half building, the shed being one story. The latter was totally destroyed. The easterly room downstairs was badly burned and the three chambers much worse.

There was an insurance of $600 on the building, and Mr. Tubbs expects to repair as soon as the insurance is adjusted.

To ring in an alarm: PULL THE HOOK DOWN ONCE AND LET GO, THEN LET IT ALONE.

Capt. Frost's Side Wins.

Last February the members of Norway Grange chose sides for a contest. Asa W. Frost was chosen leader of one side and Mrs. E. A. Cox, leader of the other. Attendance, merit of literary programs, dues and securing of new members were to count in the contest. At the meeting on Saturday last the winning side was announced. Captain Frost's side wins with a total of 17,102 points to 13,709 points for the losers.

Death of Mrs. Mary Cullinan.

Mrs. Mary P. Cullinan died at her home near Steep Falls, Wednesday morning at 3.45, aged 68 years, 10 months and 11 days, after a long and painful illness. She was a native of Ireland and with her husband, Michael Cullinan, native of the same country, came to the United States about the time of the Civil war, locating in Monmouth, Maine.

After her husband's death she came to Norway about fifteen years ago, and has since resided here. There are four children: John P., wood and coal dealer of Norway, Catherine A., wife of Eleazer M. Dunham of South Paris, Mrs. Annie V. Watson and George, employed by C. B. Cummings & Sons at Bemis.

Mrs. Cullinan was a very estimable woman earnestly devoted to her family, and the sympathy of all our citizens goes out to those who mourn their loss.

Funeral services will be at the house, Friday afternoon at 2.

Death of Mrs. G. A. Morse.

Mrs. Sarah H. Morse died at her home on the corner Fern and Beal streets, Sunday morning at 9.20. She had been sick but a short time, having left work in the shoe factory about five weeks before her death. She was a little over 50 years of age, and a native of Norway, daughter of Luther Foster, late of Norway village. She had spent some time in Auburn, Cumberland Mills and Mechanic Falls, but had resided by far the most of her life in Norway.

June 1, 1872, she married George A. Morse of Norway, who survives her, together with three children, Harry, Luther and Etta. She was a member of Harry Rust Relief Corps and of Elm Tree Colony, U. O. P. F.

Her sickness had developed what was supposed to be a tumor, and Wednesday of last week an operation was performed for that. It proved to be a cancer of the liver, which was removed, but her life could not be spared. Mrs. Morse was a highly esteemed woman, and one who worked hard all her life. Everyone is intensely sorry for her loss.

Funeral services were held at her late home, Rev. C. E. Angell officiating, Tuesday, and the house was filled with mourning neighbors and friends. The Relief Corps and Pilgrim Fathers attended in a body, and the bearers were Grand Army men. There was a host of beautiful floral tributes. Burial in the family lot at Rustfield.

Hiram, son of Robert Libby, secured, Monday, three branches of as handsome ripe raspberries as have been shown this season.

Randall Porter has returned from Boston where he has been during the summer employed on the elevated railroad and is at work in the shoe factory.

Open fires look cheery these evenings. Tuesday night icicles formed, but Wednesday morning the sun shone warm and bright and it was one of the most beautiful days of fall.

James K. P. Sampson has had his claim for increase of pension allowed. He now draws $17 a month, a rise of $5. He was a private in Co. I, 29th regiment, Maine volunteers.

The Fryeburg Fair.

Good Trotting—Big Exhibit—Fine Weather—Many Improvements About Grounds.

The opening day was cold and threatening yet there was more than an average attendance. The sun came out to cheer the grounds before noon and every thing was in readiness for the most successful fair ever held on these grounds.

The improvements are many and it is in the new cattle sheds and paint. The fence has been painted and all the advertising on the outside has been taken down. The track, which has always been one of the best in the state, has been improved, the past season.

A look about the grounds indicates a big exhibit. Over 200 head of cattle in before 3 o'clock, Tuesday, Many good flocks of sheep and Mr. Plummer's drove of Angora goats and kids—some 16 in number.

The line of horse stalls has been repaired and painted white with red trimmings which gives it a good looking appearance.

There is a long midway with its usual attractions, palmists, photographers, Maine's Black Beauty and a merry-go-round; also the venders of all sorts of wares interspersed with refreshment stands.

The Society dining room is in charge of Howard Woodward and Morris Pillsbury, with a corps of able assistants.

In striking contrast to the display of all the latest machines and appliances for farm work, is the collection of old fashioned articles exhibited in the Log Cabin near the main building. A wooden bar post made in 1799 by James Walker, a powder horn with the date of 1776, a wooden plow over one hundred years old, with stone battle axes dating back to Paugus' day are among the exhibits. Mrs. A. A. McIntire has charge of the cabin. There are fine exhibits of fruit and vegetables by the following Granges:

Forest Mountain, Brownfield; Eagle, Chatham, N. H.; Crystal Spring, Denmark; Fryeburg, Fryeburg.

S. A. Page & Son make a large exhibit of stoves.

Oculists Williams and Tenney of Portland are driving trade at their stands in the main hall.

A very interesting exhibit is that of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station. It includes fruits, foods fertilizers, materials used for insectides, fungicides, and photographs. It is a large display and one that cannot fail to be of great benefit to the farmers. It is in charge of Prof. Chas. D. Woods of the Experiment Station.

Wednesday—the Big Day.

Better weather could not have been. It was perfect. Before ten o'clock the grounds were covered with people and teams. It was a record breaker in the receipts at the ticket office. Over 8,000 tickets were sold. There is no question but more people were on the grounds to-day than at any previous fair.

Wednesday's Races.

There were three races on the card and a good field of horses in each race. The grand stand was packed and standing room was at a premium. The following summary tells the story of the races:

Six Granges made an exhibit in Floral hall. They were Eagle Grange of North Chatham, N. H., Requawket of North Conway, N. H., Crystal Spring of Denmark, Mt. Cutler of Hiram, Frost Mountain of Brownfield and Fryeburg Grange. Which one is the best we dare not say. The exhibit is good and the premium awards must show which is best.

In the poultry department are some extra fine birds. Frank Barker has four coops of Plymouth Rocks and some extra fine Leghorns. H. F. Lord shows some single comb Leghorns, as well as several other varieties. His Bronze turkeys are beauties. J. L. Pendexter has a big lot of birds in his twenty-two coops. He has the Barred Rocks, White Rocks, White Wyandottes and Leghorns, as well as some very fine coops of ducks.

Mt. Cutler Grange makes an exhibit of poultry.

Perley Hartford of Lovell rode a horse and was marshal for the three days.

The ball game of Wednesday was won by the Portland nine with a score of 15 to the Redstones 8.

It is a little out of the usual to hold a series of religious meetings during Cattle Fair. The pastor of the Congregational church, Rev. E. T. Pitts, held meetings and talked on the following subjects for the three evenings of the week:—Tuesday, "What is it to be a Christian?"; Wednesday, "Not ashamed of Jesus;" Thursday, "What a friend in Jesus."

Norway Municipal Court.

Thursday, the 24th, Horace E. Littlefield of Woodstock was tried for assault and battery upon Amos S. Bryant of the same place. It was a neighborly row, and grew out of a line fence dispute. Respondent was fined $8 and costs. Paid.

School Notes.

The largest number of primary children being in the upper school district, the school committee have transferred the first and second grade children living on Cottage street to the middle primary. This makes the registration as follows: Upper primary 32, Middle 25, Lower 20.

In the high school, the large attendance this year has necessitated additional seating room, and the older seats have been moved together and twenty new desks added. The entering class numbers 35, and is divided into two sections. The increase in the number entering the past three years is due, says the superintendent, in a large measure to the system of uniform examinations in all the town schools.

End of the Month's Corn Roast.

A party in excess of fifty attended the corn roast of the Rebekahs, Tuesday evening, and had a very pleasant time. The weather was a little cool but no one minded that. Two large fires were built in the Andrews' field just over the northerly brow of Cole's hill on Pleasant street, and around them stood, sat, and otherwise assembled groups of roasters.

The corn was John Swain's best and it was all right. Adna Keene, John Swain, Ira Harriman and Charles Akers were kept busy by husking and roasting ears for the ladies, no less than their own supply, and the ADVERTISER will be merciful and not say how much that was.

And the stories, and the jokes and the furious flying wit! The moon was just at that state where the evenings are made glorious and no one was sorry he was out that night.

Resubmission Repudiated.

There was an attendance of about one hundred at Concert Hall, Tuesday evening, to hear the famed deputy-sheriff and temperance orator, Rev. A. S. Bisbee, speak on the important topic of Re-submission.

The exercises began with Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. C. E. Angell, followed by a duet by Mrs. Frank Kimball and Mrs. Verne M. Whitman. The speaker was introduced by Rev. Miss Angell and spoke about an hour. He opposed re-submission on the grounds that it was unnecessary as the prohibitory law is approved by the majority of the people, and that it is the only successful and right method of dealing with the liquor traffic.

He pleaded for the election to office of honest, capable officials who would do their duty and could not be bought, and at the close of the address cards were circulated to be signed as a remonstrance to the legislature against re-submission. He received close attention from the audience.

The exercises closed with a solo by Verne M. Whitman and the benediction.

The latter day his remarks upon the theme, "Our ministry to young men," were able and met with deep appreciation on all sides. Friday of this week he speaks at Bethel on the theme, "The need of and need in Sunday School work."

"I want you to say a good word for Mr. Wardwell, one of Oxford's road commissioners," said a man who drives a great deal, the other day. "He has been doing something very few men do, but ought to, and that is haul clay on the sandy roads. No one has any idea how much easier the roads are on the hills near the covered bridge this side Fore street since this has been done. Encourage him."

Rev. Dr. Kneeland of Boston will speak at the Congregational church, Sunday evening next at 7 o'clock, for the Protective League of New England. Dr. Kneeland is an able, eloquent and candid speaker. SOUTH PARIS.

Death of Mrs. J. H. Brooks.

J. H. Brooks was called to Auburn, Friday morning by the sad news of the sudden death of his wife. Mrs. Brooks arose Friday morning apparently as well as usual, and shortly after was taken with a kind of faintness and died almost immediately in her mother's arms. Her health had not been very good for some years, and she had a heart trouble which was the cause of her death.

Mrs. Brooks was the daughter of the late Dr. F. J. Bonney of Auburn, and a granddaughter of Hon. Albion P. Bonney, formerly of Buckfield. She leaves a little daughter about two months old. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks have been married a little more than a year and a half.

Mrs. Cora S. Briggs entertained a party of eight young ladies Wednesday night, in honor of her guest, Mrs. Edith Linder, from Mankato, Minnesota. Dinner was served at 6.30 and consisted entirely of Swedish dishes, served in Swedish style. It was the occasion of a good deal of fun, and after dinner the party spent a very pleasant evening in music and conversation around the open fire.

A CLEVER ILLUSTRATION WITH CONCLUSIVE PROOF.

There is an old formula in philosophy which says that no two things can occupy the same place at the same time. As a simple illustration, drive a nail into a board and you will find with every stroke of the hammer, the nail will force aside the particles of wood into which it is being driven, finally making a place for itself, and proving that the nail and the wood do not occupy the same place at the same time.

DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS AND BLADDER and Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cannot occupy the same place at the same time. If you are troubled with frequent pains in the back; if your urine stains linen; if you urinate frequently during the night, and a burning pain accompanies its passage, your kidneys and bladder are in bad shape and should be treated at once.

Every dose of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY slowly but surely pushes aside some of the particles of the dread diseases of the kidneys and bladder, liver, blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and constipation, until they completely disappear. Do not lose faith or find fault, if you are not entirely cured by one bottle, because if these diseases have fastened their grip on you the longer and harder it is to drive them away.

Druggists sell it in New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles.

Sample bottle—enough for trial, free by mail.

Environments.

The passing wheels awake the sleeping dust,—
The polished, rubber-tired aristocrats,
O'er which their valets anxiously have fussed,
And wheels of heavier mold, mere democrats
That labor, for in wheeldom most unjust
Conditions socially must ever last.
But little recks the prostrate, humble dust
That stirs and writhes beneath them as they pass.
And do they grieve to hear the weary moan
Beneath them? Nay, they've troubles of their own.

CORA M. W. GREENLEAF.

Way Down in Maine.

Way down in Maine,
Where skies are blue as skies can be,
Where sunshine falls like golden rain
On green hills sloping towards the sea.

There hides a little sunny nook,
Thick-starred with spring's first violets,
Far from the city's crowded streets,
The narrow life that jars and frets.

And safe within this sheltered spot
There stands a house moss-grown and gray,
With little gardens round about,
Where wand'ring breezes stop and play.

Oh, little house among the hills,
I, a lone exile, often dream
I stand once more within your walls,
I roam once more by field and stream.

Again my bare, brown feet have found
The shortest way across the hill
To where ripe nuts fall earliest
And berries redden by the mill.

Ah, me! to know just as of old
Where spring first spills her violets,
To find, far from the world of men,
Some little nook where one forgets!

Oh, dreary walls of brick and stone!
Oh, weary life that numbs the brain!
Homesick, my heart calls out for you,
Dear hills of Maine!

Gems Found in Maine.

Lapis Lazuli Is One of the Newest Beauties--Pockets Full of Treasure--And Where They Are Found.

The Maine gems are found in the lepidolite strip, a strip of territory fifteen to twenty miles wide extending from Newry, Andover and Byron down to Casco Bay. Lepidolite, or lithia mica, is always associated with tourmalines and is the first thing to look for when searching for those gems. Tourmalines are found in Newry, Andover, Rockland, Byron, Peru, Greenwood, Paris, Hebron, Norway, Minot, Auburn and Poland. The color of these gems varies somewhat with the locality. The finest tourmalines are found as loose crystals in pockets and they vary both in color and in the rock in which they are found.

For the past fifty years it has been known that tourmalines abounded in Maine. It has been estimated that from Mt. Mica at Paris which has been in operation for the past twenty years, $150,000 worth of the gems have been taken. The color of the Mt. Mica tourmalines, owing to some freak of nature, is different from those found elsewhere. Here are found the ordinary pink, white, green and the blue which sometimes resembles sapphires, and the rare yellow tourmalines. But the green tourmalines vary in shade from the very light up to almost black and it is these dark green tourmalines which are peculiar to the Mt. Mica mines.

In the Mt. Mica mines the mineral sheets consist of coarse gneiss and feldspar rock and associated with the tourmalines is considerable cookite. Many of the tourmalines in the matrix are found in white quartz. At Mt. Mica Mr. saw, a day or two ago, a crystal about eight inches long, eight inches wide and twelve inches long which was studded with tourmaline crystals from one inch to an inch and a half in length.

White quartz crystal cuts and makes a very fine gem. Rose quartz when translucent is a handsome gem. Smoky topaz or smoky quartz is the cairngorm stone of Scotland. Smoky quartz makes gems, which vary in price according to their clearness from $1.50 to $15 or $20. The most valuable pocket of smoky topaz which was ever found in Maine was taken from the Littlefield mine which is on the west cant of the hill at Mt. Apatite.

The quartz obtained from the Hatch mine is used in the manufacture of China ware and sandpaper and for lining the digestors of pulp mills and also because acid has no effect upon it, for lining the vats used in phosphate works.

About ten tons of feldspar are being taken daily from Mt. Apatite. This is delivered to the feldspar mill at Littlefield Corner and there crushed before being sent off in powdered form to be used in the manufacture of dishes.

Mt. Apatite was named for the pretty clear, pink, green and blue stones of the same name which are very common here.

Apatite is not properly speaking a gem, for it is so soft that it breaks and wears away easily. At Pit Pulsifer's mine which is west of the Littlefield mine on Mt. Apatite, 3000 loose crystals of royal purple apatites were found in one pocket aside from 75 specimens in the matrix. This collection was bought by Harvard college and one of the professors has published a twenty-page pamphlet on this find, for apatites of a royal purple color are found nowhere else in the world. This mine is being worked for tourmalines.

A quartz crystal taken from this mine has a coating of albite one-eighth of an inch thick. This albite is found mixed in the rocks of the Hatch mine on the south cant of the hill at Mt. Apatite, while at the Littlefield mine Clevelandite is found mixed in the rocks.

Just across the Androscoggin river from Mt. Apatite is the feldspar mine of A. R. Berry. He has a contract to furnish one thousand tons of feldspar a year or two thousand tons if he can get it. He now averages five tons of feldspar a day. In his mine are pockets from which he obtains fine clear, green, pink and blue tourmalines. A rare gem found in his mine but nowhere else in Maine is the lapis lazuli, a pretty blue stone which is most common in Italy. This lapis lazuli has been found in pieces as large as a pea at Mt. Apatite, but not in any quantity. In connection with the lapis lazuli at the Berry mine is found rhodochrostite, which is of a yellowish pink color and occurs in dog-tooth-spar crystals.

Coarse garnets are very common in Maine and occasionally stones suitable for cutting are found. Cinnamon garnet or cinnamon stone resembles gold stone. In Minot is a large ledge full of this cinnamon garnet. Near this ledge in boulders are found extra fine garnets, some of which have angles sharply defined and others, close to them, have truncated edges. Cinnamon garnets have twelve planes and iron garnets have from twelve to twenty-four planes.

One of the most valuable gems found on the American continent is aqua marine, a beryl. This stone is harder than tourmaline and is only two degrees softer than a diamond. It sells for $15 a carat. At Stoneham was found an aqua marine which cut 113 carat and was valued at $30,000. This stone was exhibited at the World's Fair at Chicago. White beryl and particularly pocket beryl is very valuable and is found in long six-sided crystals in Auburn and is also found in masses of green beryl. Beryl is ordinarily opaque and of a yellowish green cast but varies from a mountain green and bluish green to white.

The golden beryl which is clear and resembles an aqua marine crystal is a rare stone, although plentiful at Topsham and Brunswick. It is worth about $14 a carat in the rough.

At Gouldsboro was found the only piece of turquoise ever found in this State. It is usually found in the vicinity of silver and copper mines.

Amethysts are found in Stoneham of a very rich color. A few fine amethyst crystals have been found on the Ellis farm at White Oak Hill, Poland, and a pocket of deep colored amethysts has been found on Mt. Apatite.

Somewhere in the northern part of Androscoggin county, the exact place being kept secret, are found beautiful pearls from fresh water clam shells. Some are round, while others are pear shaped. One specimen shown was pear shaped, pinkish lavendar in color and translucent, a beauty.—[The Sun.

Your step has lost elasticity because your blood has lost vitality, which Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore.

Would Send Them to More Congenial Climes.

John Temple Graves of Georgia delivered an address on "The Problem of the Races," before the forty-eighth convocation of the University of Chicago. He said, in part, "Separation of the races is the way—the only way. If God 'hath made of one blood all the nations of the earth,' he hath also 'established unto them the metes and bounds of their habitation.' He did not intend that opposite and antagonistic races should live together. The prejudice of race is the appointing of providence, and the antagonism of peoples is the fixed policy by which God peoples the different portions of the universe and establishes the individuality of the nations.

All Comes of a Great Sin.

"The act that brought these people together on this continent was a sin of the fathers—a sin of greed, an iniquity of trade—and the sorrow and suffering of the present is for the sin of the past—a sin against nature and a sin against God. The curse can be lifted only when nature is vindicated and God is obeyed. The problem can be solved only when the negro is restored to the 'bounds of his habitation.' It is neither impracticable nor impossible. The elements are willing and the way is in reach. This is not a day of impossibilities. The hand of the Almighty is steadily opening the way.

Would Send Them to Our Islands.

"It may be that the islands of the sea were placed by Providence in our keeping to furnish an answer to the problem of the time. The south is neither cruel nor unpatriotic, and the north knows it. If either of us is mistaken, and if both of us are misunderstood, we are yet one people, and we must meet upon the plain of our brotherhood and our destiny.

Negro is in Our Way, He Says.

"I appeal for Caucasian unity. I appeal for the imperial destiny of our mighty race. This is our country. We made it. We moulded it. We control it and we always will. We have done great things. We have mighty things yet to do. The negro is an accident—an unwilling, a blameless, but an unwholesome, unwelcome, helpless, unassimilable element in our civilization. He is not made for our times. He is not framed to share in the duty and the destiny which he perplexes and beclouds.

Would Put Him Out of Our Way.

"Let us put him kindly and humanely out of the way. Let us give him a better chance than he has ever had in history, and let us have done with him. Let us solve his problem—frankly, fearlessly, nobly and speedily. Let us put it behind us. Let us purify our politics of the perplexity. Let us liberate the south to vote and to think like freemen upon the mighty issues of the times."

A little bird in the wildwood
Sang a simple, heedless lay;
The bird flew on, but the song he sung
Cheered many a heart that day.

New Grand Trunk Station.

Portland People Appear Pleased with the One About Completed in That City.

If there is one building more than another in Portland of which the people may be proud, it is certainly the new Grand Trunk station at India and Fore streets; this is the opinion held by the Grand Trunk officials themselves, and it is cordially entertained by others who have been fortunate enough to see this magnificent new structure, to be ready for business in a few weeks.

The big main waiting room never fails to excite comment by its high arched roof, finished in blue, and its walls wainscotted nearly to the top with sienna "scageola," an artificial preparation made from cement, plaster of paris and manila hemp, to represent marble. These two features alone are sufficient to make the room the most stately in the city, and added to this is the mosaic floor, finished with tiny circular stones, the like of which are used nowhere else in Portland.

Then there is the large dining room with its deep maroon walls, and "scageola" wainscotting, its well lighted interior and its handy location to the kitchen. Besides this room, in the new station are to be found a suite of apartments for the janitor should he decide to take up his residence there, bath room, ladies' room, freight room, parcel room, express and telegraph rooms, and other rooms for which no use has as yet been found. The station has a vast amount more of interior than would be supposed from its exterior appearance.

Around the outside of the new Grand Trunk station will be artificial stone walks, grass plots, flower beds and driveways all carefully laid so that when completed that portion of the city will be one of the most attractive in Portland. The platform under the shed on the eastern side of the building is of artificial stone, and from this down between the four tracks will run artificial stone walks; no track will have to be crossed to get to another track, as the trains will enter the station head on.

A more airy building with its hundreds of windows of plain and stained glass, a better lighted structure with its many openings and countless electric lights and a more attractive edifice with its red tiled roof, its brown sides, its white walks and green grassplots cannot be imagined, and is tangible evidence that the Grand Trunk is doing something for Portland all the time.

Unless all men are liars—as Solomon said they were—there will be plenty of big game for the hunters to shoot when the season opens in October. Let us hope and believe that men have improved since Solomon's day.

The Season of the Fall.

A Beautiful Season.

The writings of Lucy Larcom have always been very near to the heart of the average New Englander, for they were created out of the New England environment of half a century ago; yet some of them are very applicable to to-day, as the following will testify:

Nobody has a better opportunity to know what the poetry of Autumn is—the real poetry, unrhymed and unprinted—than a country child whose home is in the Northern United States. Just think of it—the season of the golden-rod, the aster and the fringed gentian—of crimson and scarlet maple-forests, and of oak-groves almost as brilliant—of beech-woods whose aisles seem covered with a golden roof, as you pass through them—of pine-forests hung with the twisted streamers and orange-colored berries of the bittersweet, and bordered with pennons of the sumac and with coral-hung barberry bushes—of ripe nuts on the hillsides, as well as of yellow grain-fields, and loaded orchards. What season can boast more beauty, or half so great wealth?

Maine's Industries.

No sooner do the fishermen and summer visitors quit Maine and go to their homes and resume their places in the communities where they belong, than the hunters arrive, bringing their money and their cheerful faces to call forth new endeavors from our people. It is very agreeable to live in such a State. We are blessed in having many attractions which outsiders seek and are willing to pay for. But it is a good plan to remember at all times that Maine's permanent prosperity can never rest upon her summer resorts or upon her fishing privileges or upon her abundance of large game. If our State wishes to become a force in the nation, we should look to the workshops, the factories, the mills and farms for our advancement. We must repopulate our vacant farmhouses and replenish our dwindling villages with new activities. We must find profitable employment for more hands, not only during the fishing and summer resort and hunting seasons, but all the year round. Our waste lands must be cleared up and put to profitable service by new farmers. Our precious water power must be engaged in turning wheels and in manufacturing electricity. Our cities should spread out to touch the villages and the villages should touch hands until they form a chain that shall enmesh the whole State.

Some Queer Remedies.

The following remedy for chills was given me by a young man in the backwoods of Indiana: "Take a willow switch" (size not stated) "put it into a gallon of water, and boil down to a quart. Take a pint at a dose, three times a day."

From Louisiana comes the following: "To cure cramp in the limbs, turn the shoes upside down when retiring for the night. That never fails."

A woman from the mountains of Tennessee vouches for the infallibility of the following: "To prevent a child from ever taking whooping cough, give it a drink of water from the first stream it ever crosses." She has tried this on her Tommy, and though he was 17 years old he had never had the disease; which she considered proof positive of the effectiveness of her preventive.

The same woman also said: "To stop 'after pains,' turn the head of an axe with the sharp side up, under the bed on which the patient lies. It will cut the 'after pains.'"

My 5-year-old daughter has the asthma. The following remedies have come from widely different sources:

From a Pennsylvania Dutchman:—"Have the child sleep with a puppy. The puppy will take the disease and the child will get well."

A lady from New York state and one from Vermont assured me that the following process freed them from asthma in their youth, and advised me to try it: "Stand the child against the north post of a door, and bore a gimlet hole just above her head. Place a lock of her hair in the hole and plug it up. As soon as she grows higher than the hole, the asthma will leave her."

A Colorado man said: "Break egg shells to a powder, mix with honey and give to her. The shells will cut the phlegm from the bronchial tubes." (Query: How?)

Here is a Tennessee mountain remedy for yellow jaundice: "Hollow out a yaller turnip, fill it with water and hang it up the chimney. When the water evaporates the jaundice will leave."—[Vick's Family Magazine.

He Didn't Go.

A fellow proposed to a girl.
"Go and ask papa," the maiden said.
And the young man knew that her papa was dead. And he also knew of the life he had led. And he knew what she meant when she said:
"Go and ask papa."

8 Cents

Eight cents a pound is what a young woman paid for twelve pounds of flesh.

She was thin and weak and paid one dollar for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion, and by taking regular doses had gained twelve pounds in weight before the bottle was finished.

Eight cents a pound is cheap for such valuable material. Some pay more, some less, some get nothing for their money. You get your money's worth when you buy Scott's Emulsion.

You Will Be Happy if Well.

Paine's Celery Compound

Bestows that Health and Vigor that Makes Living a Pleasure.

If you are sick and out-of-sorts, it is in your power to make yourself healthy, strong, and happy.

There is not the slightest reason why you should go through life feeling sickly, miserable, languid, and melancholic. To be well and strong, means happiness and true joy.

If you are sleepless, rheumatic, neuralgic, dyspeptic, or have the shadows of disease hovering over you; if you are not as bright, energetic, and strong as you were some weeks ago, the use of Paine's Celery Compound will tone up and fortify your whole system, cleanse the blood, correct digestion, sharpen the appetite, and conduce to restful sleep. Thousands once in a half-dead condition owe their present good health to the use of Paine's Celery Compound. Mr. Wm. S. Gibson, of Pleasureville, Ky., who, through sickness and suffering, was brought near the dark grave, writes as follows, regarding his marvelous cure:—

"I have been broken down in health and strength, nervous system shattered, kidneys out of order, had nervous and trembling spells off and on for the last ten years. I have taken three bottles of your Paine's Celery Compound and all of the above-mentioned troubles have left me, and I can now do a good day's work. I go about my business all day long and it don't worry me, and I now feel better than I have in ten years. I have a good appetite, and can eat and get around on foot as active as when I was a boy. My age is 65 years."

DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH

Cure Catrrh by Nature's Own Method Every Breath of Hy mei Brings Relief.

Nearly every one who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it by drugging the stomach. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would have said the only way to cure catarrh would be to have a change of climate; but now with Hyomei you can carry a health giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day soon cure yourself.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle does not cure, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

Frank Kimball has sold a great many Hyomei outfits and the more he sells, the more convinced he is that he is perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyomei does not cure.

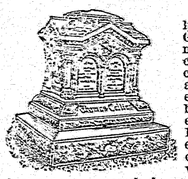
Artistic Monuments

Cost no more than plain ones in White Bronze.



Marble is entirely out of date. Granite soon gets moss-grown, discolored, requires constant expense and care, and eventually crumbles back to Mother Earth. White Bronze is strictly everlasting. It cannot crumble with the action of frost and moss growth is an impossibility. It is more artistic than any stone. Why not investigate? It has been on the market a long time. Many granite dealers have bought White Bronze for their own burial plots. I have beautiful designs of the work and I want you to see them. If you have lost friends, honor them by putting up something that will last when you have passed away. Provide for yourself while alive and well.

On receipt of a postal card I shall be pleased to call with designs and samples of White Bronze. Yours truly

The Canton Fair.

These are the cattle, sheep and swine that the committee considered the best:

Cattle—Best matched 3-year-old steers, A. B. Conant, Canton. 1st; D. A. Tuttle, Buckfield, 2d. Two years old, Moses Young, Hartford, 1st; B. F. Glover, Hartford, 2d. Calves, A. E. Turner, Hartford, 1st. Best steers, 2 years old, Geo. Record, Buckfield, 1st. Two years old, N. Perkins, Jay, 1st; Moses Young, Hartford, 2d. Beef oxen, Moses Young, Hartford, 1st; A. B. Conant, Canton, 2d; A. E. Turner, Hartford, 3d. Best matched oxen, Moses Young, 1st; A. E. Turner, 2d; N. Perkins, 3d. Working oxen, A. E. Turner, 1st; Moses Young, 2d; B. F. Glover, Hartford, 3d.

Sheep.—Flock of sheep, D. A. Tuttle, Buckfield, 1st and 2d.

Swine.—Sow and pigs, G. H. Wiggin, 1st; I. A. & C. R. Ellis, 2d.

Horses.—Town team of horses, Hartford, 1st.

In the two years old steer class the contest was won by B. F. Glover's steers and Nat Perkins', Jay, 2d. The three years old, George Record got 1st and D. A. Tuttle, Buckfield, 2d. Oxen of six feet ten, B. F. Glover, Hartford, 1st; A. E. Turner, Jay, 2d; Nat Perkins, 3d. The sweepstakes pulling match was won by A. E. Turner; Moses Young, Hartford, 2d. The seven feet two class, Moses Young got both first and second.

In the hall the exhibits were most excellent. The two grange exhibits of Canton and West Peru were more than usually full. Canton Grange is represented by a committee made up of Carroll Hutchinson, Monroe Shackley, Fred Buck and Mr. and Mrs. Isa Harmon. Peru's exhibit is in charge of Mrs. M. V. Hall, Mrs. Luella Lane and Frank DeMerritt. A $20 prize was offered by the society. Both were represented by fine agricultural displays, as well as a long line of fancy articles. In the Canton show one of the most conspicuous features was the antiques. Mrs. B. B. Daily showed a knife, fork and spoonholder of the olden times. Here were the horns of a wild western steer shot by M. G. McWilliams of Canton, and a chair shown by Mrs. John K. Forham that is 125 years old. The burnt work by Mrs. Lyman W. Smith is very fine. An old trunk is lined with a newspaper containing an account of the death of Paul Revere, and these with a lot of old books make up a rare collection of curios.

In the West Peru Grange the special features were stuffed birds and animals. A fan shown by Mrs. V. L. DeMerritt was a unique affair. A handkerchief case with a picture of the Maine on celluloid is a beauty.

The individual exhibits in the upper hall were large. In the lower hall was a good looking lot of farm products.

The base ball game between the Leavitt Institute boys and the Hebrons resulted in 4 to 6 for the Hebrons.

On the midway the fakirs held forth in loud voices and got many buyers for their wares.

PARIS HILL.

Lucia Buck spent a few hours in Norway, Thursday, the 24th.

Lewis Buswell is now working for Dr. Hammond at the Beeches, taking the place of Abner Mann.

While in the pasture at the back of the Beeches, Ivie Brown, Katie O'Conners and Hannah Foley spied a cow in the garden. So thinking she would drive her out, Miss Brown gives chase, assisted by Frank Hammond. The cow became frightened and started for the other side of the field, Miss Brown after her. Then the cow became angry and tired of the game, so turning on Ivie she made a dive for her. The young lady gave a war-whoop and a jump, which probably saved her serious injury. They finally got the cow back in the pasture after scaring Miss O'Conners and Miss Foley almost to death, without any bad results to Miss Brown.

Bulb Planting.

Put Into Ground Now They Develop Strong Roots.

Bulb planting is often deferred until October and frequently later, but it ought to de done this month, if possible, says Home and Flowers. The reason for early planting is this: Bulbs put into the ground now will develop strong roots and make all preparation for next spring's work before the close of the season. Late planted ones can not do this, consequently they will have an arrested development when cold weather comes, and the work that remains undone in fall will have to be taken up and completed in spring, at the very time when all the energies of the plant ought to be concentrated in the development of flowers.

Therefore plan to plant your bulbs early. Send on your orders for them as soon as you receive your catalogues. And when your order has gone, begin at once to get the ground ready for them. Spade it up to the depth of at least a foot. Work it over until it is fine and mellow and make it very rich. The best fertilizer for bulbs is old, well rotted cow manure. If this is not procurable use fine bone meal in the proportion of a pound to each yard of soil. Set the larger bulbs about five inches below the surface and about the same distance apart. The smaller ones, like crocus and snowdrop, can be set close together or in groups, and ought to be planted more than three inches deep.

All newly made bulb beds ought to be covered to the depth of ten or twelve inches with litter before cold weather sets in. If this is not done the frost will cause the soil to heave, and this will break the roots of the bulbs and greatly injure them. By covering we do not keep out cold, as many suppose, but we keep the cold in, thus preventing the frequent alternation of freezing and thawing, which is what does the mischief with our bulbs.

By all means have a good sized bed of tulips, another of hyacinths and one of narcissus, with snowdrops, crocuses and other small bulbs tucked into nooks and corners, here and there, all about the grounds.

The value of a collection of bulbs is not understood by those who have never grown them. They begin to bloom as soon as the snow goes, and for at least six weeks they will make the garden gay, as not all will come into bloom at the same time. Thus they bridge over the long interval between the opening of spring and the advent of the earlier hardy perennials. The lover of flowers who is without them is not living up to his or her privilages.

Not He.

"Who made the world?" a lecturer asked a number of children at a Sunday school entertainment the other day. The children remained silent.

"Come now, said the lecturer in an encouraging tone, "tell me who made the world?" Silence again.

"Who made the world?" the lecturer cried in a loud, indignant key. Grave silence, even fear, upon the children's part.

"Who made the world?" shouted the man ferociously, frowning upon a boy in a pink blouse.

"It wasn't me," the boy piped timidly.

Reunion, 12th Maine.

The annual reunion of the 12th Maine was held with Given Post, G. A. R., Fryeburg. The visiting comrades were received at the post room and marched down Main street to the Congregational vestry, where the Relief Corps had prepared dinner. Marcus W. Smart of Fryeburg made a brief address of welcome.

It was of more than ordinary interest, the choice of Fryeburg as the meeting-place. Many Fryeburg boys served in the regiment, among them the late Maj. D. R. Hastings and Capt. Seth C. Farrington. Co. E was made up of Lovell, Bridgton and Fryeburg men. The 12th Maine was commanded by Col. George F. Shepley of Portland.

Dr. Seth C. Gordon, surgeon of the 13th Maine, was the first speaker of the afternoon; he spoke of the days passed on Ship Island, in the Mississippi Sound, days of hardship. The 12th regiment was also on the islands and many of the members present at Fryeburg recalled with the doctor incidents grave and gay.

The reading address was given by Rev. Eliot B. Barber of Westbrook, chaplain of the regiment. He spoke in substance as follows:

It is with reticence that I speak of the Civil War, as I was not born till the war was half over. There is more in this reunion than we see. There is the heart fellowship, soul speaking to soul. When you put your name on the muster roll a long time ago, you did not know what you were doing. When you got down there on those battlefields experience came fast. You had to help each other, you had to suffer together. When you came back and were discharged and Col. Ilsley (God bless his memory) put his name on your paper, you began to realize what had grown up in your souls for one another. Out of all your hard experiences had grown up all that was great and noble. As you come up to these reunions, the unanswered names on the roll call, the vacant places, sad as they are, bring you closer together.

There is not a soul of you who is sorry he went. When you went to war, many of you boys, in that war you grew, your life unfolded and the things you learned out of that service are of inestimable value. We fought the battles, right conquered, we shake hands as brothers. So let us remember that in our hearts today there is a residuum of memories that is precious.

It was a fine address.

Words of reminiscence and comradeship were spoken by Marshal Emery, M. I. Milliken, W. B. Randall, John Fort, H. M. Stearns, G. A. Hastings and others.

At a business meeting the following officers were elected:

President—Lewis H. Bradbury.
1st Vice-President—M. P. Holt.
2d Vice President—M. I. Milliken.
3d Vice-President—W. W. Watson.
Chaplain—Eliot B. Barber.
Secretary and Treasurer—William P. Hodsdon.
Executive Committee—Marshall Emery, Nathan W. Kendall, William B. Randall.

The association made Mrs. Kendall Pollard of Swampscott, Mass., matron of the regiment.

The day's exercises were in charge of Lewis H. Bradbury, he being vice president, the office of president being vacant, owing to the death of Col. Edwin Ilsley of Limerick.

The next meeting of the regiment will be held in Boston in 1904. That place being selected as it is to be the scene of the National meeting of the G. A. R.

An interesting incident at the reunion was the presence of George G. Andrews of Portland, who served as 2d lieutenant, Co. C, 12th Maine, and E. H. Riley, M. I. Milliken, Henry S. Berry, Marcus M. Smart, Joseph Quincy. This company of old comrades met with great enjoyment.

The decorations of the rooms where the addresses were made consisted of autumn leaves and asters, which were beautifully arranged.

Tobias L. Eastman, commander of the local post, made every effort for a successful day.

A quartette, Mrs. T. L. Eastman, Mrs. Z. O. Wentworth, Mrs. C. W. Pike and Mrs. E. E. Hastings with Mrs. A. M. Abbott accompanist contributed enjoyable and fitting music to the day's programme.

My mother's voice! how often creep
Its accents on my lonely hours,
Like healing sent on wings of sleep,
Or dew to the unconscious flowers.

Anyone who is thinking of selling out his business to a trust may get some pointers from a story in the October McClure's by William Hamilton Osborne called "Bullock Jr. and the Octopus." When Bullock Sr., manufacturer of skates, died it did not look as if his business could long survive him. The trust was in the field and the Bullock skate had not been asked to come in. The trust did not consider it worth its while. It was manifestly up to Bullock, Jr., to break in—which he did, at his own figures too.

Twenty-five of the night crew at the Continental Bag mill at Rumford Falls were laid off temporarily Wednesday because of lack of material usually supplied by the International Paper Co., whose 700 men went out on a strike two weeks to-day. Some of the machines may continue for two weeks and possibly longer with the stock now on hand.

A Heavy Seizure.

Sheriff Flint went to George W. Benson's house, Tuesday, at the Cat Hole in Brownfield, and seized twenty-eight barrels of cider, 1,112 gallons, and took it to his premises in East Hiram. He arrested Benson later. Tuesday forenoon Justice Wadsworth declared the cider forfeited and ordered it destroyed, and in the afternoon it was poured out in the mill yard of Hiram Lumber Company. Benson was arraigned and fined $100 and costs. Appealed.

BETHEL.

The Kelliher House Burned.

Eugene P. Martin's premises, formerly known as the "Kelliher place," was gutted by fire Tuesday morning at 2.30. The fire originated in the stable farthest from the house. When Mr. Martin discovered the fire he ran for his horse, and found him in a shower of falling fire dropping through the floor above. He succeeded in removing the horse, also a sow and six pigs in the basement below.

About that time a train came down the line and the engineer did a noble thing in sounding a long and continuous alarm, which awoke the whole village. Up to that time Mr. Martin had been so busy that he had not succeeded in alarming anyone to his assistance. The two hose and the ladder companies were soon on duty and fought the fire heroically, stopping it in season to save the body of the house and a part of the ell, but they were flooded in every part. The most of furniture was saved in a damaged condition.

In the excitement, Mr. Martin failed to save a small trunk containing $100, and it was destroyed. The buildings and furniture were insured for $2000 with W. J. Wheeler. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

Fryeburg Fair.

Major H. R. Hendershot and son of Chicago entertained the people with fifé and drum for three days. Their music pleased the crowd immensely. The major is the genuine Drummer boy of the Rappahannock of '61-3. Though no longer a boy he can beat a drum to a standstill and was a great attraction.

A. H. Evans has been drawn a grand juryman for Fryeburg for the year to come. He will be at South Paris at the coming term of court.

Cutler has Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Merrill, and Denmark is in charge of Edward I. Head and wife. Frost Mountain Grange has a committee made up of James R. Hill, Edwin H. Blake, Elizabeth A. Hill.

Log Cabin Exhibit.

This is something new. It is a happy idea of Secretary McKeene's. A log cabin is built on the grounds and in it are exhibited many of the ancient things of this vicinity. It was the center of attraction each day and was visited by all who could gain admission.

Mrs. H. A. McIntire of East Fryeburg has charge and she is kept busy explaining the history of the curios shown. Uncle T. S. McIntire assists her and both were busy Wednesday. No one supposed there were so many "old things" of interest in this vicinity. Wheels clocks, dutch ovens, toasters, ancient fire-place fixtures, title deeds and love letters were on exhibition. We mention only a few. C. H. Walker shows "pod augur tines" with many builders' tools including augurs, plow tongs, shears, adz, etc. The musical instrument called a bassoon used for church music in Fryeburg in 1800, flax wheels and flax by Mrs. E. M. Buzzell also by B. T. Newman, a wheel built in France and one in New England showing the manufacture of flax. There is genuine flax of 40yearly ago shown by Amos McIntire, with comb and swingling knife. P. C. Hartford shows the horse pistols used by his grandfather; R. M. Lowell, Hiram, powder horn used in 1776.

A wooden plow is shown by Benj. Ingalls of Baldwin that is over one hundred years old. Thos. Spring has a potato digger more than a century old. A clock 150 years old is shown by E. H. Blake which he will sell for $75. The sign used by the Wayside Inn, Hiram, is shown here. "T. S., 1796," is on it, meaning Thomas Spring who opened the house at that time. The property is now owned by Marshall Spring who makes the exhibit. An oak post of 1799 is shown. It is somewhat the worse for wear but is in good shape.

The table on which General Frye and wife ate their first dinner in town in 1755 is shown here. Pewter ware of all kinds, dutch ovens, clocks, hides etc., were shown, all of which are more than a century old.

Benson Family Reunion.

A reunion of the Benson relatives was held at the old homestead now occupied by Rev. Seth Benson, at North Paris, Saturday. There were sixty-five who sat down to a picnic dinner in the old house. It was a source of great pleasure to greet relatives, some of whom had not met for many years, if ever, and the day was spent in sociality, with an informal program of songs by the talented members of the family.

The homestead is a most delightful place for a reunion. On the hill just above the village the view is grand, and the natural surronndings added not a little to the pleasure of the occasion, which owes its inception and success to Mrs. Julia Tubbs and son Benson Tubbs. Winslow Bisbee of this place has a fine flock of Barred Plymouth Rock pullets hatched about May 15th, any one of which would probably dress from 4 to 6 pounds. But Mr. B. prefers that they continue to dress in their own handsome and becoming feathers, especially as so soon in their early career they show a disposition to break all local record for early laying. Get the Most Out of Your Food

You don't and can't if your stomach is weak. A weak stomach does not digest all that is ordinarily taken into it. It gets tired easily, and what it fails to digest is wasted.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, and disagreeable belching.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla at different times for stomach troubles, and a run down condition of the system, and have been greatly benefited by its use. I would not be without it in my family. I am troubled especially in summer with weak stomach and nausea and find Hood's Sarsaparilla invaluable." E. B. HICKMAN, W. Chester, Pa.

BUCKFIELD.

Football.

The football craze is on again.
Somehow it seems quite queer
That the great lack of exercise
Should come this time of year,
When labor lags for lack of men
To rise and go afield,
To exercise both brain and brawn
And glean the season's yield.
It was not thus in other days
When boys were taught to work.
But "evolution" now controls,
Has taught the youth to shirk.

Last Saturday, a football game between the South Paris and Leavitts came off here. Report has it that the Leavitts won. A great victory no doubt for the reason it was not bloodless. As we heard it several were slightly injured and a doctor was called to one who later was assisted into a carriage and went to his home.

It seems superfluous to mention the late crop of strawberries so generally reported, but Wm. Robinson brought in a few of the cultivated variety and John Flagg gave us a taste of the wild which were very palatable.

What think ye of sending 20 men, prominent Grangers, probably, to Utah on a junket to study the subject of irrigation at the expense of the State? Would not the subject of drainage be more appropriate? And then 20 men would be a confusion of tongues.

Bennett Family Reunion.

The annual Bennett reunion which for six or seven years has occurred at one of the several old homesteads in Greenwood, was this year a very enjoyable occasion to the twenty-four relatives who, Sept. 24, gathered at the Noah Bennett farm, the old home of John and Jacob Bennett, now of Paris. The day was clear though breezy and somewhat chilly, but permission was obtained of the owner of the house, who is not at present living there, to occupy it for that day and it was soon made comfortable by a brisk fire.

When 12 o'clock came they gathered around a table spread with a bountiful picnic dinner, to which all did ample justice, interspersing it with reminiscences of bygone and childhood days.

After dinner those who cared to took a stroll over the farm looking for familiar places and landmarks. The home of our childhood has a place in our hearts that no other place can have.

Later in the day they turned homeward well satisfied with this reunion at the old home.

There are so many useless remedies on the market that when one is found which experience proves does what is claimed for it, it is a pleasure to endorse that preparation. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at John Berry's drug store, under Hotel Thacher, and the satisfactory results obtained warrants me in making the above statement."

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Hazel Bennett found two ripe strawberries last week.

Mrs. S. T. White of West Paris was in Norway last week and visited her friend, Mrs. C. P. Barnes.

Mrs. Helen A. Crooker was in Norway, Saturday, and attended the Grange. She has been at her brother's in Waterford and was going to her daughter's at Locke's Mills.

Sunday the water was drawn down and the mill pond at the Cummings lower mill was cleaned out. There was a mass of sawdust, in places three feet in depth which had to be removed. A large number of spectators viewed the work.

Mrs. F. E. Chase of Haverhill was in Norway, last week, to see her sister, who is one of the inmates of the Old Ladies' Home; also to attend to some business connected with selling their house on Paris Hill. Mrs. Chase was in the millinery business here many years and has a great number of friends and acquaintances in town.

About half past four, Thursday afternoon the ADVERTISER man was stopped by John Swain who wanted to show him something. Opening a wooden box there was displayed a goodly number of handsome field strawberries. Mr. Swain said he couldn't tell how many he had eaten that day, but it must have been at least a pint. He picked them where he was at work near Crooked river.

Letter to Chas. E. Freeman.

NORWAY, ME.

Dear Sir: Messrs. Leachman & Edelin, Grafton, W. Va., had been selling a paint, which they thought well of; and this had occurred.

They had sold a customer 18 gallons of it to paint his house. A few years later, they sold the same man Devoe lead-and-zinc the same number of gallons to paint the same house. He had 7 gallons left.

The point of the tale is: 11 gallons Devoe paints an 18-gallon house.

Of course, that isn't all.

Why does 11 gallons Devoe go as far as 18 gallons of other paint? Because it is all paint, all true, no sham, and full measure.

But that isn't all. Devoe lasts longer. No, no, you haven't got to wait ten years to find that out. Ten thousand people know it. We've got their names. Our agents know them; they think a heap of Devoe. There's no difficulty in showing your townspeople what to expect of Devoe. $10 will paint a $15 house; and the paint'll last twice as long.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & Co.,
New York.

P. S. F. P. Stone sells our paint.

The number raised in 1899 was 710, and in 1902 the number raised was 1220, an increase of 12 1-5 per cent. The death rate in 1903 was 17½ to a thousand, the same as for the past two years. The average lodge membership is 120, in which Maine stands number 8, while it stands number 12 in total membership.

On Foxes.

Their Shortcoming Discussed by An Old Hunter.

"When the Lord changed the color of a fox's fur from red to black or gray," said Jason Norton, the aged fox hunter of Penobscot valley, "he gave the favored animals new skill in self protection and fitted them out with brains of large capacity.

"I have hunted foxes more than 40 years and I have killed more than 1,000. Of this number 75 or 80 were cross foxes whose pelts are worth from $40 to $75 today, 14 were black foxes and eight were silver grays.

"If a red fox was half as cunning as they say he is, he would never be shot ahead of the dogs. So long as there is plenty of room for a fox to run in and the room is in a direct line, he can distance the best dog living at the quarter post and get so far away in half a day that the hunters could not see again for a week.

"But a red fox hasn't learned that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points which shows that he has never studied geometry. As soon as he hears a dog yipping behind him he sits down and studies a bit to make sure that he is the fox that is picked for the chase.

"If he finds out the dogs are after another fox, the chances are that he will be envious and will spend, a lot of time in cutting across his rivals trail and trying to confuse the dogs.

"No sooner is a red fox sure that he is selected for the hunt than he loses all caution and devotes his energies to having fun with the dogs. He climbs up the trunks of leaning trees for the sake of leaping off into distant snowdrifts, he teeters along the top of rail fences and sneaks down the channels of running brooks, hoping the water will kill the scent.

"After being funny for a time, he will sit down on a sunny knoll and listen and laugh to himself to hear the dogs swear about him. He will do these tricks until the dogs are tired and mad clear through and then he will begin to run in a circle so he can keep the dogs within ear shot all the time.

"And this is what finishes him up, for as soon as the hunters learn that he is moving in a curve they calculate the diameter of his circuit, cut across to head him off and the next time he comes around smiling at the joke he is playing on the dogs, he is met in the face with a charge of double B shot and he never laughs again.

"No one ever knew a black fox or a silver grey to be guilty of such folly. As soon as a fox with a costly overcoat on his back hears the dogs bellowing behind him he sniffs around a bit to learn the direction of the wind and he is off to windward at the rate of thirty miles an hour.

"As he keeps his nose to the wind all the time, he can smell out any danger that may be ahead of him, and so long as he keeps running he is sure that nothing can overtake him from behind. If the dogs happen to be of the long legged kind, such as they use in England, the fox has to stir his feet pretty lively for a few hours, but when the dogs grow tired, he settles down to an easy lope of 12 or 15 miles an hour and does not stop until he is 100 miles away.

"Meantime the dogs drop out as they grow tired and go wandering about the woods trying to make a short cut for home. They haul up at farmhouses on the way to rest, and the last one is not captured and brought home for a week. By this time the fox will have returned to his old feeding grounds and had a nice long rest so he will be ready for another run.

"It is my candid belief that if all the foxes in Maine were put together so we could look them over, the blacks and silver greys combined would equal the number of reds. They are gaining in numbers every year, too. The reason why we do not shoot them is because they are wiser and less humorous than their red cousins."

A Sad Sight.

The unusual spectacle of a man and woman standing calmly by while flames devoured their household goods was witnessed by numerous citizens in a Maine town the other evening. The couple were man and wife, but their matrimonial experience had not proven a particularly pleasing one and had terminated several months ago in a separation, the woman leaving her husband's bed and board for what she evidently considered was good and sufficient cause.

The husband concluded that he was capable of keeping house all right and his address was still the same, when his better half suddenly put in an appearance and announced to her lord and master her intention of burning her share of the furniture.

"All right, I'll help you," was the calm reply, and together the couple carried out the furniture which was piled up in the center of the yard.

When the last article had been carried out kerosene oil was poured over the heap of household effects, the woman lit the pile on one side while the man applied the match to the other and in a brief space of time a rather unique bonfire was sending a shower of sparks heavenward.

Neighbors who hastened to see what had caused the sudden illumination found the husband calmly sitting on the fence smoking his pipe and watching the flames in their work of destruction, while the wife stood nearby viewing the fire. When the destruction of the articles was complete the woman turned and walked away from the scene; the man descended from his perch upon the fence, knocked the ashes from his pipe and walked into his empty castle whistling.

An Unsolved Mystery.

"The forest has many mysteries," said an old Pennsylvania woodman, "but none deeper than that of wild animals that die natural deaths.

"The four-footed dwellers of the woods certainly do not live forever. Age and disease must carry them off regularly, as human beings are carried off, but what becomes of their bodies?

"I have many times found dead animals in the woods, but never one that did not show unquestionable evidence of having died from violence of some kind. Every woodsman will tell you the same. What becomes of the dead wild animals that die natural deaths?"

HANOVER.

A Welcome Gift.

Quite a number of Hanover ladies visited the Old Ladies' Home in Norway during the Fair week and were so much interested in the work that they have sent a box of bedding to help along.

Mr. Pierce has moved his family from East Bethel into the lower rent at Mrs. S. W. Holt's. Mr. Pierce is to work for Smith Bros. this winter, cutting pine.

The farmers are digging their potatoes and all report a good yield. It is comforting to have one good crop in this season of frosts and drought. There are very few apples in town.

Forty-four volumes have recently been added to Pierce library, among which are the complete works of Oliver Wendell Holmes and the two volumes of Wyckoff's "The Workers."

Mr. Mitchell has gone to Milan, N. H., to spend the winter with his daughter. Florence Mitchell will visit during the winter, so they have vacated the Johnson house, and the Pattersons, it is said, will occupy the rent.

Thirty-one Knights Templar from Lewiston joined the party coming from the Rangeleys here last Thursday, so the total party numbered a hundred or more. Escorted by Strathglass Commandery a parade was made in the afternoon headed by the Lewiston Brigade Band. In the evening a banquet was served in Odd Fellows' hall by the ladies of the Universalist church. The party returned to Lewiston on a special train, Thursday evening.

A New Yankee Dialect Story.

We receive from the publishers Ike Glidden in Maine, by A. D. McFaul, the latest addition to the Yankee dialect stories now so popular. Glidden as a young man leaves his ancestral home in Vermont, spends a short time in Providence as servant to a lawyer in that city.

After a few years seeing an advertisement for a lawyer wanted to loccte in Blueberry Falls, Maine, he goes there and sets up practice. Not an educated man or trained in legal lore, he wins cases and establishes a successful practice by native wit and sound sense.

He outwits two horse traders at their own game, and gains popularity in some ways and unpopularity in other directions by championing the cause of the weak and needy. Through his advocacy a large industry is established of the preparing and bottling of blueberry wine, otherwise "blueberry bitters," which meets with large domestic sale. He spends a time in a western mining town, achieving wealth. He goes to California and wins a large fortune for Amanda Garland who is the heroine as he is the hero of a little romance.

Measuring and Seasoning.

Here is a list which will be found invaluable by the housewife who pastes it on a card and hangs it up in her pantry. The list does away with the necessity of lumbering up the place with weights and measures:

Four even teaspoonfuls of liquid equal one even tablesponful.

Three even teaspoonfuls dry material equal one even tablespoonfal.

Sixteeen tablespoonfuls liquid equal one cupful.

Twelve tablespoonfuls dry material equal one cupful.

Two cupfuls equal one pint.

Four cupfuls equal one quart.

Four cupfuls flour equal one quart or one pound.

Two cupfuls solid butter equal one pound.

Two cupfuls granulated sugar equal one pound.

Two and one-half cupfuls powered sugar equal one pound.

One pint of milk or water equals one pound.

One dozen eggs should weigh 1½ pounds.

Skim milk is heavier than whole milk, and cream is lighter than either, while pure milk is 3 per cent. heavier than water.

The following table of proportion is also valuable. Use

One teaspoonful of soda to one cupful of molasses.

One teaspoonful of soda to one pint sour milk.

Three teaspoonfuls baking powder to one quart of flour.

One-half cupful yeast or one-quarter cake of compressed yeast to one pint liquid.

One teaspoonful extract to one loaf of plain cake.

One teaspoonful salt to one quart soup.

One scant cupful liquid to two full cupfuls of flour for muffins.

One scant cupful of liquid to one full cupful of flour for batters.

One quart of water to each pound of meat and bone of soup stock.

Four peppercorns, four cloves, one teaspoonful mixed herbs for each quart of water for soup stock.

The Art of Milking.

The Art of Milk Obtained Depends Much Upon the Milker.

The art of milking is a subject that has received very little attention from dairy writers. Why this is so only can be assumed that many of said writers do not milk the cow which they write about so glibly. Our most voluminous writers on dairy matters are the professors of dairy husbandry at the experiment stations, and these men never milk a cow at all.

The milker and the cow must needs be upon the best of terms if maximum amounts of milk shall be obtained. The milker must put himself in the place of the calf, and the same sympathy which obtains between the cow and her calf must obtain between the cow and the milker, if best results are to be obtained. This is not always so, and hence so many bad milkers in the country. The same person should always milk the same cow, and in the same order. If Spotty is the first cow milked by milker No. 1 to-day, she (Spotty) should be the first milked by this milker to-morrow and after. Where there are two or three milkers at work, the cow does not care if the other cow which is always being milked by milker No. 2 is milked ahead of her. She does not expect milker No. 2 to milk her at all. But if her own particular milker goes along and milks some other cow ahead of her, out of the regular order, she worries and will not give as much milk at that milking as if she had been milked in the regular order. The cow that is milked second or third does not worry because the other cows are milked ahead of her. She does not expect to be milked until her turn comes; but if she is passed along she becomes insulted, so to speak, at the slight and will revenge the milker at the pail when she eventually is milked Cows must be milked in the regular order and by the same milker, when it is at all possible.

Second, the milker must cultivate the friendship of the cow, so that she will appear happy when he sits under her to milk. One of my cows, she that I milk first, when she sees me coming to her with stool and pail, at once begins to let drop her milk. She does not let a drop fall before she sees me coming toward her, ready to begin milking, though. The other cow, which is first milked by my assistant, never worries when she sees me starting to milk her sister standing alongside; but when the assistant comes, did he attempt to milk one of the others ahead of her, she would worry dreadfully. When first sitting down to milk, do not begin drawing the milk energetically at all. Pause a minute and rub and pat her belly and udder; then take hold of a teat in each hand and squeeze and draw gently for a few times in long, gentle strokes; then you may go at it as energetically as you like.

Mary had a little lamb,
She sold it to the trust;
She's cutting coupons now so fast,
Her scissors never rust.

Mental Vigor.

It is Not Acquired by Overloading the Memory With Facts.

How little there is in an ordinary education or even in a college course which teaches the art of grasping things with the mind with that vigor and force which increases mental power!

Most students labor under the delusion that to know things increases power, when, in fact, it may have just the opposite effect. Bookworm and walking encyclopedias are usually very weak people; they lack that power of initiative which can seize things with a firm grip and manipulate them at will.

Overloading the memory with facts, statistics and theories, like overloading the stomach, may defeat mental digestion. It is not knowing a great many things that avails, but knowing how to use one's power to the best advantage.

Our observations have convinced us that the students who are always memorizing and making notes of statistics, and who seem to get everything possible into the memory, are apt to impair their executive faculties. While they know a great many things, they do not know how to use them effectively. They are so overloaded with facts that they cannot marshall their knowledge to good purpose. They cannot concentrate. Doing must accompany thinking, or there will be no power of excution.

Mental vigor is gained, not by memorising or through teachers and professors but by that mental self-help which utilizes knowledge as it is acquired. We grow in power by investigation, deep concentration, thinking, planning, and bringing about results without the assistance of others.

One self-wrought problem will give more vigor than a thousand worked out for us. It is the constant stretching of the mind over large problems, over large modals—it is independent thought that increases mental power.

Memorizing is a parrot's work; it does not bring much mentality into play; but to think along original lines, to investigate, to reach out into new fields, to reason independently for oneself, is to grow.

Power should be the goal of all ambition. This can never be gained by imitating, leaning upon others, asking advice or going on crutches.

The grandest sight in creation is a normal man of power who stands firm on his feet and does not wabble or swagger or trample on a man who dares to think his own thoughts, or live his own life—who does not lean, or imitate, or sham—who can look the world straight in the eye without wincing, and does not swerve a hair's breadth to the right or left, though a paradise tempt him, but goes straight to the goal—[Success.

The Perfect Days.

It must have been in splendid September that our Concord sage set down his immortal words, after some ecstatic morning walk:

"Give me health and a day and I will make the pomp of emperors ridiculous."

If in June come the perfect days, in September arrive the splendid ones—splendid in the true sense of the word, rich in color, light and serene magnificence. The big trees are still at their best. There is pomp indeed. Their foliage of the summer is still rich, with a mellower green, perhaps, touched in here and there. But the absence of its first freshness is more than atoned for by the refining of the additional tints and glints of ripening and hints of richer color changes to come.

The sunshine of the morning, tempered with mist of breeze, is balmier and more genial than that of midsummer; the sunsets are superb as at no other season; and the afterglow so wonderful in its broad golden glare in the heavens that it is strange that people do not run out of their houses or stand still in the streets to gaze up into the sky. To the westward, against the intensity of the red and yellow background, every tree and house is cut out as in cardboard, in a dark color which is neither black nor purple, but that indescribable mixture of red and green artists use to produce the effects of black.

To the eastward the dark blue firmament is suffused with faint reds. But where is the artist's color that can give the horizonward intensity of the afterglow, seen through, or under, the trees' branches? No amount of heaping up of "cadmium yellow" and "saturnian red" together, as in Enneking's paintings of this subject, no cunning mixture of "raw sienna" or "permanent yellow" can ever capture the original fires of the spirit of the sun in the atmosphere, any more than the cleverest of portrait painting or sculpture can set down in paint the warmth, the charm, the soul of the living and breathing subject. The soul of the afterglow is as distinct an entity, as indpendent of the materials in which it is conditioned, as is the soul of a human being.

Maine.

"The Pine Tree State."

"The green sea wave, whose waters gleam
Limpid, as if her mines of pearl
Were melted all to foam the stream:
And her fair islets, small and bright,
With their green shores reflected there,
Look like those Peri isles of light
That hang by spell-work in the air."

"From Maine to California" goes the phrase, and many of the 216,000 natives of the Pine Tree State who have left the roof-tree, are to-day to be found in the land of oranges. Their places are filled every summer, however, by an ever-increasing host of rest-seekers from other parts, who, having once come under the subtle influence of the Maine forests or sea-breezes, will never again be able to shake it off.

This imperial State is the largest of the New England group, and so vast is its area of woods and inland waters that much of it has been but roughly explored. With an extreme length of 302 miles and a width of 285 miles, Maine has a total area of 33,040 square miles, of which 29,895 square miles comprise land. It is nearly as large as all the other New England states combined.

On the east it is bounded by the free Atlantic, on the north by New Brunswick and Quebec—continuations of its own wilderness region—and on the west and south by New Hampshire. Its marvelous coast-line has a measured distance of about 225 miles, but there are fully 2,500 miles of actual tode-water line. Its many headlands and outlying islands give it the appearnce of "a fringed and tasseled border."

The land slopes from an extreme elevation of 2,000 feet on the west, and 600 feet on the east. There are upward of 1,600 lakes with an aggregate of many hundred square miles, and some of these are at exceedingly high altitudes.

Cool breezes from the Gulf of Maine, the shores of which were visited by the Cabots in 1497, temper the summer heat on the seashore, and the balsamic air of the great forests makes the interior of the State a natural sanatorium.

In northern Maine alone there are 15,000 square miles of hunting territory, a region as large as Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut together, and all of this is practically an unbroken wilderness. The entire state from one end to the other is a veritable fishermen's paradise.

With respect to population, Maine comes third in the New England list, its inhabitants numbering 695,000. The farms of the state—for Maine is a great agricultural region also—number 62,000 nearly all of them owned by their occupants, and the annual value of farm products is about $37,000,000. In manufactures there is $123,000,000.

The state's 9,000,000 acres of forests yield $15,000,000 of products yearly and the income from the coast fisheries is about $3,000,000 a year. Several million dollars are spent every year in the state by visiting tourists. These are just a few of the figures indicating where Maine stands to-day with reference to its sister New England states.

To the average vacation-seeker the seashore resorts of Maine will appeal most strongly, since some of them do not fish, many care nothing for the pursuit of deer or moose, while all wish to keep as cool as may be during the heated term.

The whole Maine coast is one fascinating stretch of alternating white sand beach and beetling cliffs, sentinelled for a large part of its length by outlying islands.

Bar Harbor is the fashionable resort of the Maine coast, and lying between it and Kittery are a score or so of attractive places, including York, Ogunquit, Wells, Scarboro, Old Orchard, Kennebunk, Biddeford Pool, Cape Elizabeth, Portland and its splendid harbor resorts, Harspwell and the other islands in Casco Bay, Bath, Woolwich, Sheepscot Bay, Popham, Boothbay Harbor, Pemaquid, Rockland, Penobscot Bay, Belfast, Islesboro, Monhegan and Isle au Haute.

Beyond Bar Harbor and Mt. Desert, whose scenery belongs in the category of the sublime, lie Sorrento, Sullivan, Winter Harbor, Jonesport, Cutler, Machiasport and Eastport, and so on to Campbello, St. Andrew, St. John and the other provincial points.

Of the inland fishing resorts, where trout and togue, land-locked salmon, bass and other varieties of game fish abound, a catalogue of Maine's myriad lakes and streams will tell the story about as well as anything.

The largest of the lakes are the Rangeley system, Moosehead, Sebago, Grand Sebec, Megantic, Belgrade, Schoodic, Eagle, Millinocket and Chesuncook, but fine fishing is to be enjoyed in any of the innumerable lakes and ponds of whatever size, and in the Kennebec, Penobscot, Allegash, Fish, Aroostook, Dead and other rivers of the state.

Hunting, which is governed by state regulations that it will not do to disregard, is carried on over a large portion of the state, but particularly in the region beginning at the Rangeleys and extending clear up to the northeastern tip of the state, and also in Washington county. Moose and deer are the special quarry sought by the army of nimrods annually visiting the state, and the deer brought out from their wilderness retreats number thousands.

This vast sporting region offers splendid opportunities for canoeing trips and camping expeditions. Experienced guides are to be had everywhere, and so greatly do they contribute towards one's comfort in the woods that many ladies are nowadays roughing it with their husbands and brothers.

The railroad facilities in these sections are not one whit inferior to those along the coast. Maine has now about 2,000 miles of railroad to its credit. Moreover in addition to the scores of camps in the wilderness, there are at several points some of the largest and finest hotels in New England; Raugeley, Belgrade and Moosehead being notable cases in point.

Maine is today attracting seekers after health and rest from every state in the union, and from nearly every province in Canada. As in the case of the White Mountain resorts, many fishing enthusiasts have annually been visiting their headquarters for twenty-five or thirty years, and would under no circumstances consent to forego the pleasure.

The cities of Maine—Portland, Augusta, Brunswick, Lewiston, Gardiner, Bath, Bangor and others—are all well worth a visit; Portland being especially a favorite with tourists on account of its convenience as a headquarters for side trips to Casco Bay, Peak's and Cushing's Islands, Sebago Lake, the Songo River, Bridgton, Poland Spring and other favorite resorts.

The fertile agricultural region in Aroostook and some of the other farming counties should also be visited, and the tourist may profitably look in at New Sweden in northern Maine and at the settlement of the descendants of the Acadians on the St. John river.

Truly, this Maine is a wonderful, kaleidoscopic State. Perhaps its wilderness region presents its most impressive phase, and to grasp the full meaning of its immensity one must stand upon the summit of lofty Mt. Katahdin, a mile above the sea, and look forth upon the illimitable, silver-spangled carpet of verdure spread out below.—[Maine Central.

Tuck, words of comfort to the stricken family from I Sam. 20-18. Why We Shake Hands.

To shake hands with a person is rightly regarded as a token of amity, but very few know how this custom arose.

According to a French ethnologist, whenever two men met in former times, they were accustomed to hold up their right hands in front of them as a sign they had no intention attacking each other. This mark of confidence, however, did not prove sufficient in all cases, for a man may hold up his right hand and yet, if he keeps it closed, may have a weapon concealed in it, and therefore it became the custom for the two right hands to grasp each other, as only thus could full assurance be given that no weapon was concealed in either of them. Formerly, therefore, this gesture, now the token of loyalty and friendship, was one of reciprocal distrust.

Scribner's Magazine for October contains a remarkable narrative written by a brilliant woman. It is a graphic account by Mrs. John Quincy Adams, wife of the President, of his perilous journey by coach from St. Petersburg to Paris. In February, 1815, she started alone with her six-year-old son (the afterward-distinguished Charles Francis Adams), to join her husband (then a member of the Peace Commission) in Paris. Her journey was along the trail of Napoleon's army, and glimpses of the recent battle-fields appear in the journal.

RUBBER.

[An illustrated story of human nature.]

This is the man who stopped on the street
And gazed at something beneath his feet:
O

This is the second who stopped to see
Why the first had paused so suddenly:
o O

And this is the third who checked his pace
To watch the others with anxious face:
o o O

A fourth pedestrian comes to a stand
And joins the silent, inquisitive band:
oo O o

In less than a minute ten small boys pause
To learn what's doing and what's the cause:
ooooo oo O o ooooo

And so the crowd grows rapidly
Until it looks like a lynching bee:
oooooo
oooooooooooooo
ooooooooooooooo
oooooooooOoooooooo
ooooooooooooooo
oooooooooooooo
ooooooo

At last a man from across the way
Asks: "Who is hurt? What's wrong, I say?"
"? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ?"

And the cause of the trouble is heard to call,
"I couldn't remember an errand—that's all!"

The crowd, disgusted, melts away,
And what do you s'pose they think and say?
"! —*— ! * ? —— !! —— ? * !! ??"

Strawberries and Cream.

The children of Rev. Geo. J. Palmer picked a good quart of nice ripe strawberries Thursday of last week, the 24th, in the hillside pasture of A. H. Witham, and they brought to your humble scribe a good mess of strawberries and cream, which myself and wife enjoyed Friday for tea. They were just nice.

WEST FRYEBURG.

Always Something Spoils the Gunner.

Henry Andrews and son Charles, Phin Seavey and Herbert Hanscom were at work near the Mill pond one day last week and at near sundown they saw a bear swimming the pond towards them Mr. Hanscom, who lives near, hastened to his home for a gun while with a cudgel young Andrews tried to keep Bruin from getting ashore. But though Mr. Hanscom was gone but a short time the bear succeeded in eluding his adversaries on shore, made a landing and escaped to the woods before the hunter's return.

We have been hearing bear stories for a score of years, more or less, but probably in that time very few indeed of the dreaded quadrupeds have appeared within the limits of Fryeburg. This fellow is now no doubt roaming the happy hunting grounds of the New Hampshire border.

Albert Stiles shot a bear one day last week in Seth Webb's pasture in South Chatham, N. H., where it sat watching the cattle as they were feeding. He proved a capital target for the sportsman's buckshot.

Bears are reported to be very numerous and they say "'most anybody can shoot a bear now." All the same they are less to be dreaded than the rifles of the hunters which can be heard in all directions.

A survivor of the Civil war says; "It was safer in front of Petersburg in war times than in your own dooryard nowadays."

A party of late summer tourists arrived, last week, at Geo. H. Hill's, South Chatham, N. H.

Henry Andrews has a workshop on his premises nearly completed and newly painted. It is a neat one.

Fred A. Whitman of Haverhill, Mass., is a guest of his uncle, D. B. Hill, and of relatives at Green Hill, N. H.

Waldo McIntire intends going into business in Boston if reports are reliable. He merits success and will doubtless attain it.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heath of Green Hill, N. H., are enjoying the visit of Mr. Heath's brothor Lyman Heath, and wife and sister, Mrs. Dora (Heath) Weigel of Massachusetts.

E. F. McIntire has the frame of his new mill put up and the hnmming of the saw as it slices up the timber will be pleasant to hear when the new machinery shall be in operation.
